About hennicke.consult

After leaving the President's Office at the Wuppertal Institute in February 2008, Prof. Hennicke has been working as Freelancer and Senior Advisor at the Wuppertal Institute. Prof. Hennicke exercises his project activities since 2014 under the name „hennicke.consult“ as an individual enterprise not being incorporated in the Commercial Register. Hennicke.consult aims at national and international scientific policy consultancy through projects, teaching activities (e.g. guest professorship Lund University/Sweden), lectures and publications etc. with respect to sustainable energy, climate and resource policies.

Since nearly two decades, Prof. Hennicke also deals with energy and environmental policy in Japan through lecture tours, congresses, articles and advisory board activities. He has been member of the „Board of Trustees“ of the Japanese „Institute of Globale Environmental Strategies (IGES)“ and closely cooperated with Prof. Morishima, the former head of IGES and his successor Prof. Hamanaka in the scope of the „International Advisory Board (IAB)“ of the Wuppertal Institute. In numerous lectures and lecture tours, Prof. Hennicke has been speaking about the German Energy Transition since the 1990s, among others at the invitation of the German Foreign Office, as invited speaker at congresses and several universities in Tokyo. He visited the Fukushima region, the Hosei University and Kyoto at the invitation of a japanese NGO by the end of 2013 and gave a lecture about the German Energy Transition at the „German-Japanese Dialogue Forum for Environment and Energy“ in February 2014. Prof. Hennicke was a member of the delegation of Minister Dr. Barbara Hendricks during her visit in Japan 16 – 20 May, 2016.
